

You have been loved

Every moment since before you were born

All your life that's made you who you are today

Now you can go

Take the love you've known to build your own home

And discover all the future holds for you

So spread your wings and fly away

And together reach for dreams and hopes to share

As your journey starts you can be sure

In this love you are complete

Now and always

Through the highs and lows you've promised to stay

Sharing everything you find along life's path

Love without end

Living every moment with your best friend

Go discover all the future holds for you
