

When will there be peace on Earth
When will nations end their wars
When will people learn to live in love
When will hunger be no more
When will water flow for all
When will there be justice for the poor

Hope for the world has come

God sent his son to earth

Hope for the world has come

To live as one of us

Hope for the world has come

God sent his son to earth

Hope for the world has come

To live as one of us

Who will give the lost a home
Who will shelter those who fear
Who will show that someone really cares
Who will heal the scars of time
Who will wipe away the tears
Who will give each person's life its worth

I will stand for what is right
I will choose to live in love
I will care for people in their need
I will stand for what is right
I will choose to live in love
I will value life that God has made
